

Staff Training Presentation

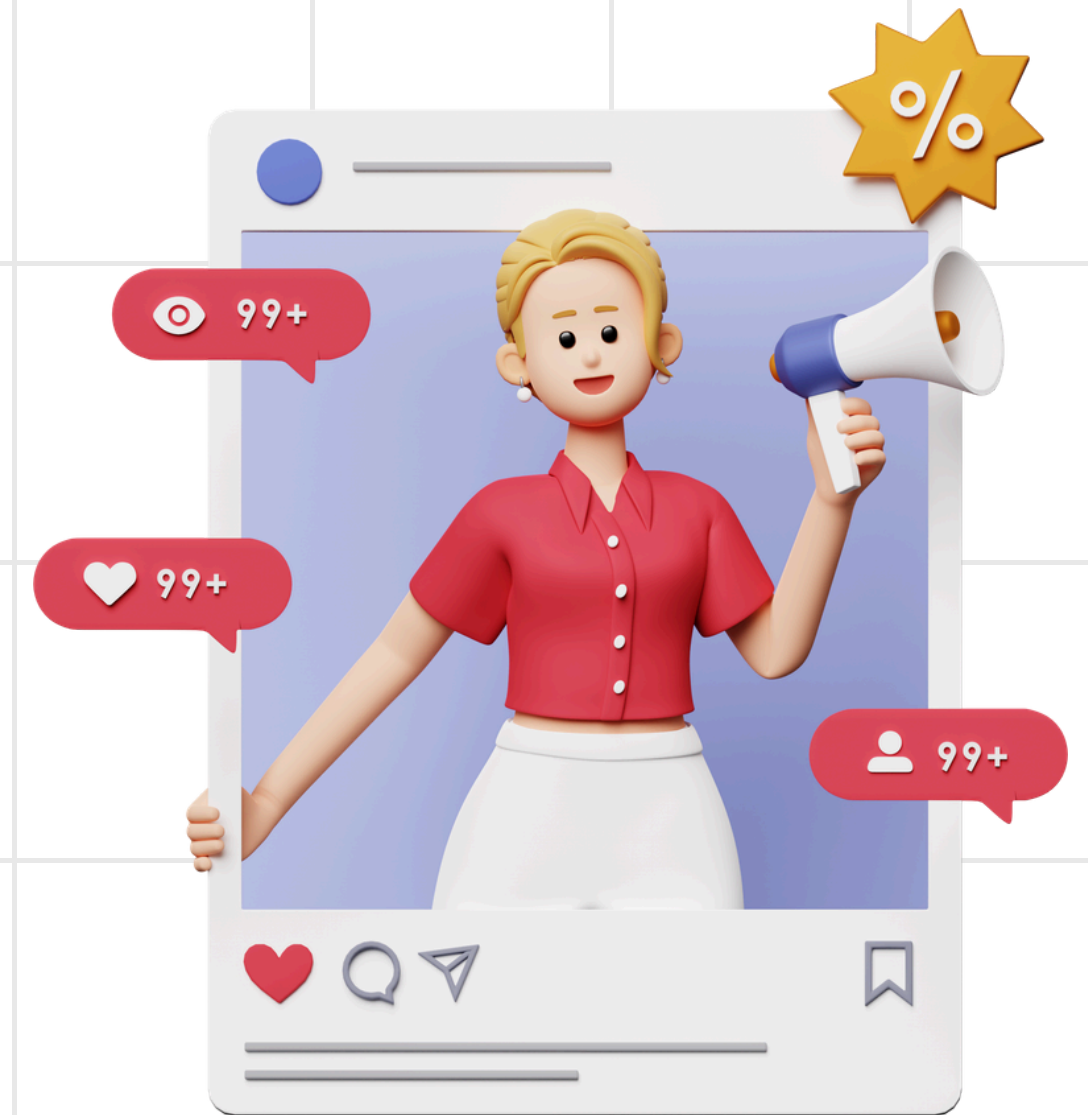

Areas por improvement: Marketing, Technological skills, and customer service

Today we will present three areas where our staff needs improvement: marketing, technological skills, and customer service. These areas are important for company development and customer satisfaction.

introduction: Enhancing Support

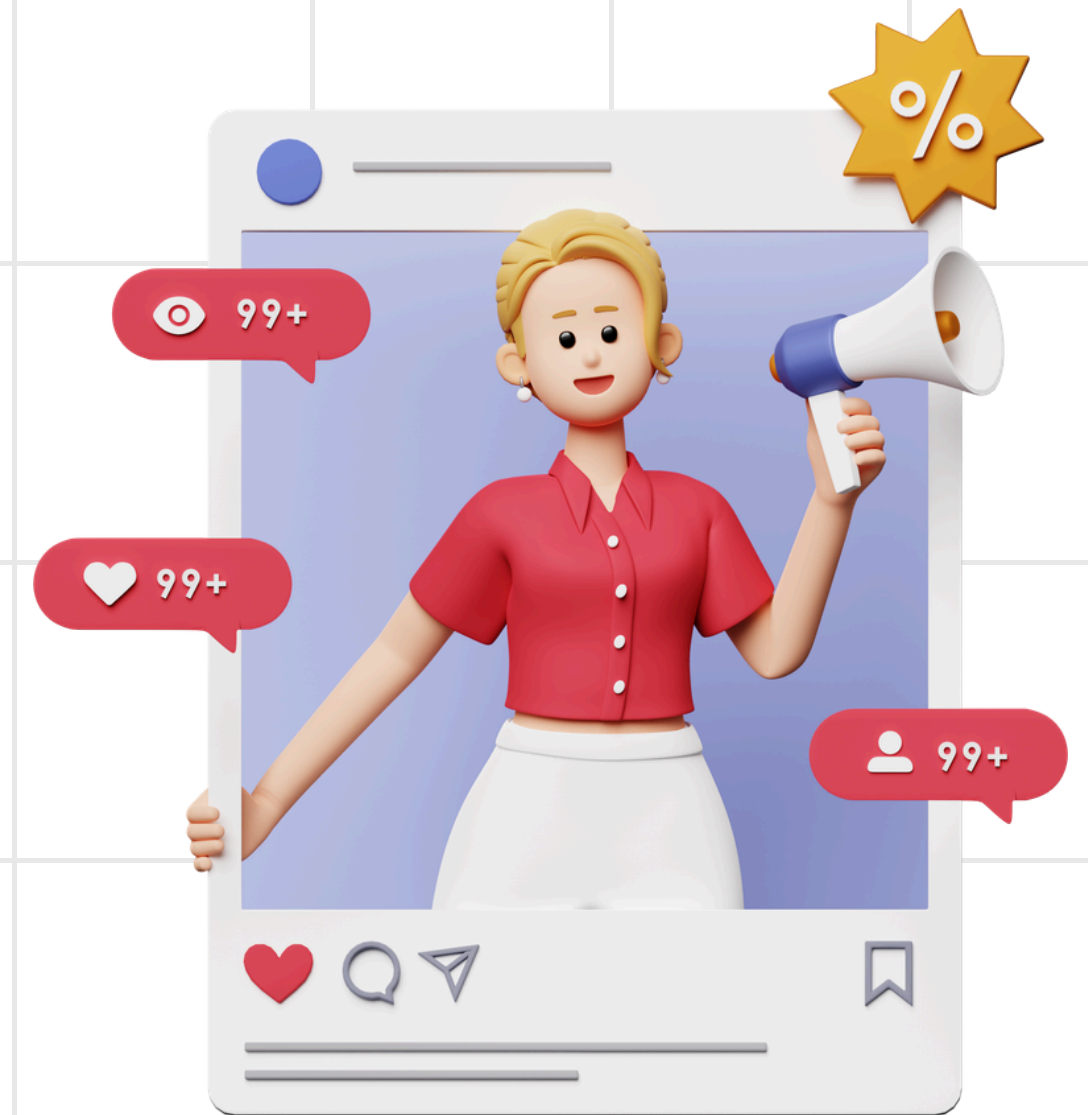

Welcome to this presentation on the Staff Training Plan for our sports representation agency. In the competitive world of professional tennis, a player's success depends not only on their talent on the court but also on the strength and professionalism of the team managing their career.

we will present three critical areas where our staff needs improvement: Marketing, Technological Skills, and Customer Service.

MArketIng.

Our company isn't as powerful as our competitors, but we can become more competitive than we are now. We can also be more visible than before if we increase our advertinsing on social media and other comuniation chanel. People who are good at maneging their social media as professionals would be hired to promote the company and our clients.

Technological skills

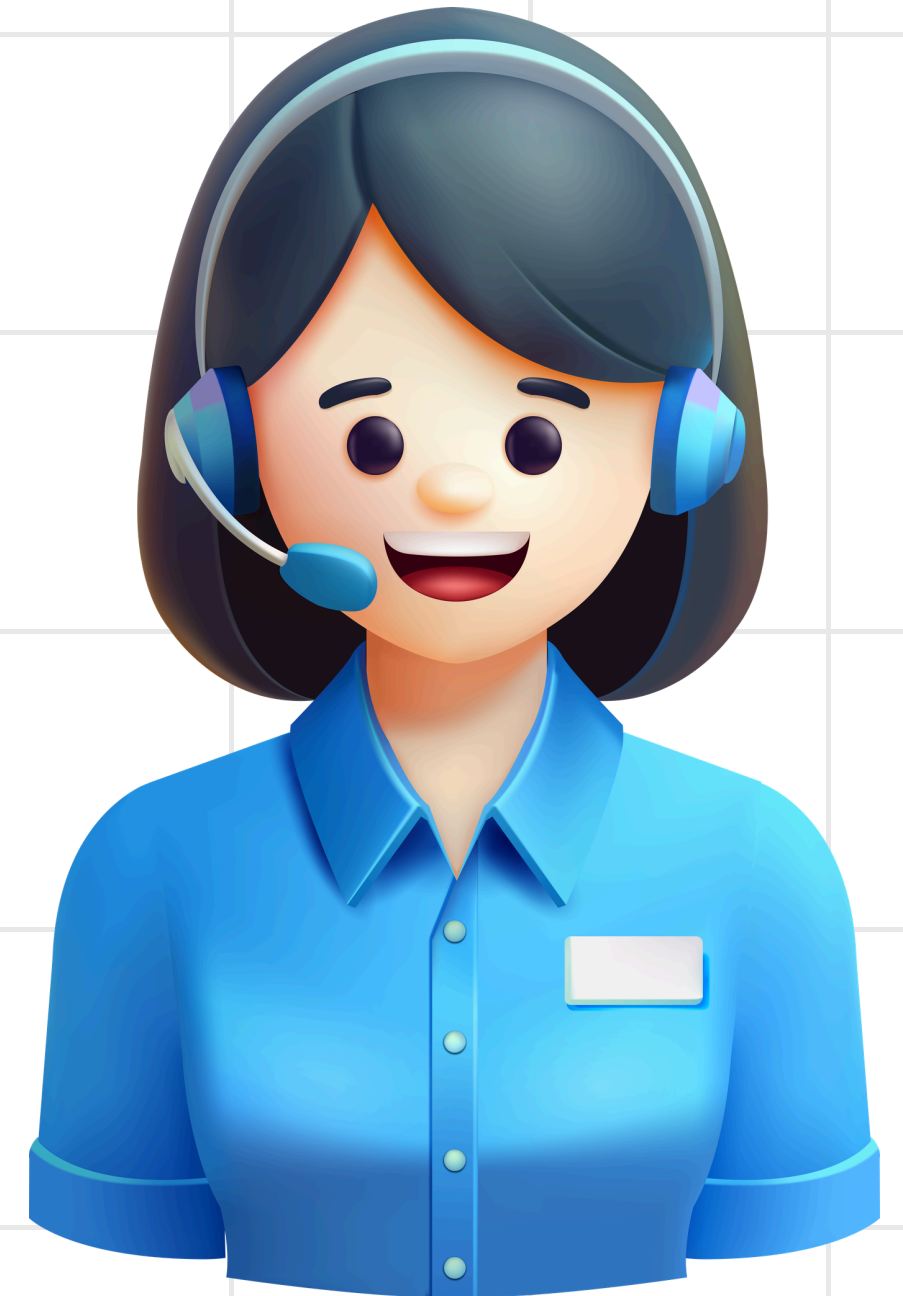

Technological skills are more necessary than ever. Employees need to use digital tools faster and more efficiently. This is one of the most important areas because technology makes work easier and more productive. The staff will receive training in software, online tools, and digital communication.

Customer service

To improve customer service in a high-performance athlete company, it is key to be more responsive and more personalized, offering the most effective support.

With a more professional and empathetic team, stronger relationships will be built. In the future, the company will implement more advanced tools and provide the most innovative service in the industry.

Conclusion

To conclude, our staff training plan focuses on three key areas that can make a big difference in our company: marketing, technological skills, and customer service. Improving these areas will help the team become more professional, efficient, and competitive. It will also allow the company to better support its clients and build a stronger reputation in the sports industry. With the right training and development, our agency can continue growing and offer a higher quality service in the future.